MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

SUBJECT: Colonel White's Testimony on S. 4571
(CIA Retirement Act Amendments)

1. During Colonel White's testimony, Congressman Richard C. White (D., Tex), on the House Armed Services Committee, asked Colonel White if the annuity of a child survivor, which is terminated because of marriage, would or could be resumed following a divorce. Colonel White's response was to the effect that yes, he believed so.

2. Colonel White's response is clearly supported by the law if the child qualifies as a student under Section 221e, as amended. It is clear that an annuity is terminated upon marriage but following a divorce, the child clearly meets the definition of child in Section 204b3 in our Act (unmarried child) and Section 221e clearly permits the child to begin or resume if the child becomes or again becomes a student.

Remarks:

Legislation covered by this report has been approved by the Senate and hearings have been held before the appropriate House committee. It is my understanding that our Employee Association gets no revenue out of the vending machines and therefore that aspect of the bill would have little impact on us. You might want to look into other aspects of the legislation from a logistical or security standpoint, insofar as there is a requirement to install certain facilities in new Federal buildings under certain conditions.
